Broker's trial under way Accuses Gaye Flood of false loan statements

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

EAST ST. LOUIS — When Jack Orwig wrote out a false statement about where he got the downpayment for his home in Pontoon Beach, he said he didn't know he was defrauding the federal government.

"I thought it was just something to keep Delmar Financial (the loan company) happy," he testified in federal court Monday.

Gaye Flood told me the money for the downpayment couldn't be borrowed, so I had to come up with something to explain where I got it."

Orwig made the false statement as part of his 1984 purchase of a house at 22 Victor Drive. To make the purchase, he used a government-insured loan through the Veterans Administration.

That house is the basis of one of six federal felony counts of making false statements — counts for which Flood, a Granite City real estate broker, went on trial this week. She is charged with inducing Orwig to make the statement.

The other false-statement counts involve statements of assets on applications for loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration and made to Paul Ray Bowler.

The loans were made to Bowler, vice president of the Granite City School Board, for the purchase of properties at 3916, 3924, 4052 and 4060 Oakmont Drive in Pontoon Beach and 2617 Pine St. in Granite City.

Flood also faces one federal felony allegation of conspiracy based on her alleged dealings in connection with the six properties.

Under questioning by Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas Daly, Orwig testified he obtained $8,100 for a downpayment in a loan from Heidman Steel in Granite City, his employer at the time.

The statement he filed for the loan states he obtained the money by selling a 1950 Nash automobile, cashing in an insurance policy, selling furniture and drawing from his savings.

There was no insurance policy, Orwig said, but he really had sold a Nash and held garage sales prior to moving to Granite City from Toledo, Ohio. But, he testified, the funds from both sources were long gone by the time he bought the house.

Orwig testified that, after Flood told him he couldn't show the downpayment money as having been borrowed, she sat down with him and asked him to come up with ways he could have gotten the money.

"I told her about selling the Nash back East and that we'd had several garage sales," Orwig said.

Asked by Daly if he came up with the idea of his own, Orwig said he did whatever Flood told him. Asked why, he said, "So I could get the loan on my house."

After he wrote out the statement, Orwig testified, he gave it to Flood. He said he didn't realize it would be part of the VA file.

During cross-examination by defense attorney Patrick Mathis, Orwig said he was sure he never had any direct dealings with Delmar Financial Co. either by mail or by phone, but had only dealt with Flood.

He said he "guessed" he had filled out a loan application with Delmar "since they ended up making the loan."

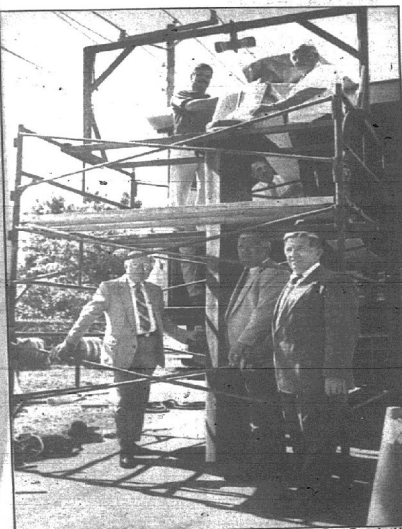

Asked if he had been prosecuted for making the false statement, Orwig said, "Not yet." He said he had not been promised any immunity from prosecution in return for his testimony.

Sharon Orwig, Jack's wife at the time of the purchase, testified Monday she knew nothing of the false statement made by Jack Orwig, but only knew Heidman had loaned them the money. She testified she "just signed what I was told to sign" at the closing of the sale.

She also testified she and her present husband now have a house listed for sale with Flood and that she considers Flood a good real estate broker.

In other testimony Monday, Lucille Clark, a former loan executive with the U.S. Housing and Urban Development office in Springfield, and Robert Fox, former director of the Springfield HUD office, testified as to their decision-making process in the Bowler loans.

CITY OFFICIALS, including several aldermen, turned out to lend a hand for the beginning of the Nameoki sewer rehabilitation. Nameoki sewer repair begins

By Sam Hananel
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The first stage of a $4.7 million project to line the pipes of the Nameoki sewer system with new, more durable pipes began Monday.

The product, called Insituform, allows the city to build a new plastic pipe within decaying pipes without the costly task of digging up streets and yards.

"We have spent millions of dollars over the past 20 years repairing sewer breaks," said Public Works Director Brett Hanke.

On hand to observe the first hour of operations at Franklin and Miracle avenues were Mayor Von Dee Cruise, Street Superintendent Mac Warfield, Aldermen Jeff Worthen, Emerald Dawes and Walter Milton, and Hanke.

Insituform is distributed in several hundred-foot lengths of needed felt tubing that resembles a collapsed, oversize fire hose and is impregnated with a special resin.

After lowering the tubing into a manhole cover and pushing it through the desired length of pipe, the tubing is filled with hot water, which expands it and cures the resin. Within a few hours, the pliable Insituform hardens into a strong, jointless, non-corrosive pipe.

"This will eliminate sewer breaks in the city of Granite City," Hanke said.

He added that the new pipes will "lift a tremendous burden off Mac Warfield's back and a tremendous financial burden off the city."

It will take one year to lay 54,030 feet of Insituform throughout the Nameoki area sewer system, Hanke said. No digging is required unless workers reach a spot where the current pipes are too misaligned to push through the Insituform.

Repairing sewer breaks has been costing the city $500,000 to $700,000 annually, Warfield noted.

More old fuel tanks located at QuikTrip

By Sam Hananel
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — More old underground gasoline storage tanks were removed yesterday from the development site of a future QuikTrip store and Jack in the Box restaurant at Niedringhaus and Madison avenues.

The tanks still contained some gasoline, according to Dave Cisewski, environmental coordinator for QuikTrip. They were removed by Wegman Services Inc. under the supervision of Geotechnology, a licensed contractor for the removal of hazardous wastes.

"They were kind of a surprise," Cisewski said, referring to the discovery of the tanks. Two weeks ago, construction crews dug holes in the concrete above the tanks to verify their location.

Cisewski said construction crews "had a feeling there were tanks under the lot because there was evidence that a service station was once located at a corner of the property."

Thirteen storage tanks have been removed from the site to date. Previous surveys had estimated that seven tanks were located under the property.

Removal of the additional tanks should only cause three to five days of delay in the project's overall schedule, he said.

Before legislation passed in 1988 outlined proper procedure for tank disposal, Cisewski said, there were no prohibitions against abandoning old gas tanks. It is, therefore, not unusual to find them at the former location of a gas station, he said.

Guidelines of the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency require that all soil contaminants by leaking petroleum be removed from the site. Once the soil has been removed and the holes have been refilled, the abandoned buildings now standing will be demolished. Cisewski estimated this phase of the project will be done by late-August.

EPA will conduct a groundwater characterization study on the property starting next week and have results within a month.

Costello meets on retraining workers

GRANITE CITY — U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, met Saturday with authorities from Madison and St. Clair counties to hear how local agencies are prepared to assist workers who will lose their jobs as a result of massive layoffs at McDonnell Douglas Corp.

"It is important that those workers who lose their jobs get assistance and retraining as quickly as possible," Costello said. "These cuts will be devastating to the people of the area, and they will need immediate help."

Costello met with Madison County Board Chairman Nelson (See LAYOFFS, Page 8A)

Bridge snarls to increase

Traffic delays caused by construction are expected to begin on the Poplar Street Bridge within a few weeks, now that the Illinois Department of Transportation has awarded a contract for replacement of deck and retaining wall areas. The main two lanes on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River will be closed at times during the construction, which will last until the fall of 1992.

City to try to get the lead out

The city is considering legal and political pressure to influence the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to reconsider its plan to permanently seal, rather than remove, the Taracorp lead waste pile and to remove soil from a 100-block area around the nearby lead smelter. Hanke said a permanent 30-foot-high pile of hazardous waste downtown could kill efforts to revitalize the area.

'Stars' music at park tonight

The final performance of Music Under the Stars will be held at 8 tonight (Wednesday). The concert will be presented on the outdoor stage at Wilson Park, 27th Street and Delmar Avenue. The adult and young adult choir selections will include "Annie"; the best of Walt Disney; and an Irving Berlin medley.

BAC board OKs 3.5-cent tax increase

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — As expected, the Belleville Area College board of trustees approved a 3.5-cent increase to the tax levy at a special meeting Monday night, but only after some sharp debate among board members.

The board also gave final approval to the college's $32 million budget for the 1991 fiscal year at the meeting.

The levy increase, which will affect the 1990 tax bills of college district residents, will fund renovations to BAC's three campuses in Belleville, Granite City and Red Bud. The renovations will make the three campuses more accessible for students with disabilities.

The levy hike will raise about $789,000, which the college actually won't receive until the fall of 1991. The increase will cost the owner of a $60,000 home an extra $14 in taxes.

The vote was 4 to 1, with board members

Elizabeth Jenner and Kay Bennett absent. Farmer, who voted against the tax levy and the budget, said the college should not raise taxes with a general fund balance of $4 million.

"The board has an obligation to strike a balance between the schools and the taxpayer. We have an obligation to get the biggest bang for the buck and I think we've abrogated that violation," Farmer said.

His comments drew sharp responses from other board members and BAC president Joe Cipri, who said maintaining a sizable fund balance is essential to the college's financial future.

Among the scheduled renovations are: the installation of four automatic door openers to four entrances at the Belleville campus and to one entrance at the Granite City campus; modifications to restrooms at all three campuses; the installation of another elevator at the Belleville campus; and the installation of blinking lights next to fire alarms for the benefit of deaf students.

"There's no question that we're long over due making these changes," said Larry Schmalenberger, BAC's vice president for administrative services.

Schmalenberger said the $789,000 to fund the renovations is included in the proposed budget.

"We have it in there as a transfer from the education fund to the operations maintenance fund," he said. "Once the tax dollars come in, we'll pay back the education fund."

Estimated revenues and expenses for the upcoming fiscal year should both equal $20.5 million, up from last year's figure of $17.3 million, Schmalenberger said.

Other major items allocated in the proposed budget include $425,000 for the installation of a main frame computer at the Belleville campus and $30,000 for the replacement of the telephone system at the Granite City campus.

Mark D. Pellazari, 25, of Highland was booked for battery after a fight July 17 at the Extra Innings tavern in Granite City.

Tools stolen from van

Somebody got away with about $1,400 worth of tools in the burglary of a van during the night of July 16-17.

The burglary took place at the Legacy Golf Course home development. The van, which belonged to Tri-County Builders Inc. of Edwardsville, was backed up with its back doors open flush to a house under construction. The burglar entered the van by prying loose an insulation panel from the side of the house.

Taken were six compressed-air nailers, three circular saws, two power drills, some saw blades and assorted hand tools.

Theft of van reported

Monte K. Williams of the 2900 block of Roosevelt Drive reported that somebody stole his van while it was parked on the street in front of his house during the night of July 16-17. The van is a two-door 1978 Ford Courier painted with brown primer.

Served with warrants

Robert E. Melson, also known as Robert E. Dean, 35, of the 2500 block of Benton Street, was arrested by Madison County sheriff's deputies July 17 and charged in several Granite City warrants. The warrants included driving under the influence of alcohol, reckless driving, obstructing justice and unlawful possession of a hypodermic syringe.

2 drivers hurt in crash

Two Granite City men were slightly injured in a two-car accident July 17 on Nameoki Road.

Police said Greg L. Beler, 25, of the 2400 block of Hemlock Avenue was northbound on Nameoki Road at Garfield Avenue when Anthony B. Visintine, 30, of the 4700 block of Nameoki Road turned onto Garfield.

Both men were treated and released at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Man arrested in closet

Preston T. Price, 35, of Belleville was arrested July 15 and charged in a Collinsville warrant with failure to appear in court to face a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol.

Police had responded to a call to the 2100 block of Dewey Avenue where a woman asked police to remove Price from the residence. Police said they found Price hiding in a closet. He was held pending the posting of $202 bail.

Crash victims intoxicated, jury learns

EDWARDSVILLE — Two local men killed June 23 in an early morning accident on State Rd. 35 when the truck they were riding in left the road and hit a tree — were intoxicated, according to testimony before a Madison County coroner's jury Thursday.

Deputy Coroner Roger Smith said during the inquest held in the deaths of David A. Lynch and Mark R. Thomas that a toxicology report for Lynch, the driver of the truck, showed a blood alcohol content of more than twice the legal limit for intoxication.

According to testimony, the two had been drinking at the Bottoms Up Tavern in Pontoon Beach prior to the crash.

Tests showed that Lynch had a blood alcohol level of .210 while Thomas had a level of .105. Under Illinois law, .10 is considered legally drunk.

Several beer cans were found in the truck when the vehicle was discovered at about 7 a.m. smashed against a tree 210 feet from the road, police reports showed.

The owner of the truck, Durand Dilday, has been charged with permitting an unauthorized person to drive, having no vehicle insurance and having his vehicle's seat belts disconnected.

According to testimony at the inquest, Dilday told a Pontoon Beach police officer investigating the accident that Carrie Williams of Arlington Heights had told Dilday that Lynch took his truck keys.

However, Smith testified Thursday that Dilday told Smith he had Lynch had a suspended driver's license while Thomas' license had been revoked.

Coroner Dallas Burke said following the inquest that no determination has yet been made as to the cause.

Drug charges filed against pair

EDWARDSVILLE — A Madison couple was charged with violating the drug law in criminal informations filed by the Madison County State's Attorney's Office on Friday.

Stanley D. Wells, 28, of the 1700 block of Rhodes Street was charged with one count of unlawful possession of cocaine on July 18 in a criminal complaint signed by a representative of the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois.

Bond for Wells was set at $75,000 by Circuit Judge Edward C. Ferguson.

Charged with unlawful delivery of a controlled substance was Anita L. Wells, 20, of the same address. Ferguson set bond for her at $10,000.

Disability is not inability

Kathy Stiles knows what it's like to have a tragedy occur. She also knows what it's like to survive, and thrive. Kathy who grew up in Wood River, was talking on the phone in 1982, when all of the sudden she could not talk, her lungs collapsed, and she went into a coma. She was transported by helicopter to St. Luke's East Hospital. She remained in a coma for 7 weeks. After coming out of the coma, she faced brain surgery to stop the internal bleeding. Two weeks later she was released from the hospital and began out-patient therapy. She was paralyzed on the right side, and her speech and memory were affected. They still are. But, she has a new attitude. "Originally, I believed what others told me, that I could not live a happy, productive life. When I went to IMPACT, I began to believe in myself. It has made all the difference." Kathy has done so well that we hired her. Now she provides peer support and counseling to other people who have experienced traumatic brain injury. State ATV refunds available

Refunds to individuals and dealers for all-terrain vehicle (ATV) and off-road motorcycle registrations will begin being issued in August, Conservation Department Director Mark Frech has announced.

Registration money is being refunded because the Legislature and Gov. James Thompson approved a bill (SB 1491) repealing the ATV law.

Funds for about 1,800 of the estimated 66,400 vehicles required to be registered have been received by the department, Frech said. Refunds, along with a notice explaining the refund, are to be sent out by the department.

Questions regarding refunds should be directed to the Illinois Department of Conservation, ATV/OHM, Springfield, Ill. 62701-1767, or (217) 782-2138.

Alcoholic Rehabilitation Home not just a place to sleep and eat

By Ken Mosser

GRANITE CITY — To the average person who has never been in one, halfway houses are viewed as prison environments that offer skid-row drunks in their 40s and 50s a pillow to lay their head on at night and a decent meal to wake up to in the morning.

The Alcoholic Rehabilitation Community Home (ARCH) doesn't fit the image. It is much more than just a place to sleep and eat, and clients nowadays may be as young as 18 and 19 years old.

"ARCH has been, since the late '70s and early '80s, more inclined to therapy," said Divine, program director of the 18-bed transitional treatment home. "It's more of an 'extended care facility' than a 'halfway house.' It's a place where good therapy happens."

He noted that as many as 15 of the home's clients have gone on to become professional counselors in the field.

"We've been told by the Department of Public Health and the Department of Alcoholism and Substance Abuse that we have one of the best halfway houses in the state," he said.

ARCH has been serving the needs of recovering alcoholics and dependent men in this region for the past 20 years, doing it in relative obscurity. "These types of places typically have a short history of existence," said Ted Ellerman, a member of ARCH's board since its inception and board president for many years. "Twenty years is something to be proud of. They are helping people who really have no other recourse."

"If we are able to take people who have been unproductive and unhappy in their lives and turn that situation around so they are happy with themselves and are contributing members of society, I think we're accomplishing a lot," he said.

When ARCH merged with the House of Hope, Edwardsville, in 1988, it became the only transitional treatment center in Madison and St. Clair counties. It is a separate, not-for-profit entity managed by St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The counselors and other employees at ARCH are associates (employees) of SEMC. The Social Work Department at SEMC is directly responsible for the management of ARCH.

Clients who stay at the home receive such services as group therapy, individual therapy, treatment planning, recreation, employment counseling, after-care and, soon, relapse prevention therapy.

"We look at relapse as a process and not as an event," Divine said. "It's a long process, one that you have to look at developmentally. If you look at it as an event, it leaves you with little opportunity to intervene."

The typical client at ARCH is one who has gone through a treatment center, gone home, and didn't do very well.

"They come here mainly to learn how to build a support system," Divine said. "A lot of what we do at ARCH is teach people coping skills."

"Our counselors see people who may face legal matters and ethical issues, such as stealing, DUIs and impending divorce." ARCH tries to act as a bridge between treatment and the real world. Over the years, the home not only has affected the lives of its clients, but persons who have worked there as well.

"It was a great growth period for me," said Dan Duncan, who worked at the home (1984-87) first as a counselor and then as its director. Now he's community coordinator of the Edgewood Chemical Dependency Program in Edwardsville. "It was probably one of the most difficult, challenging and rewarding experiences I have ever had."

Many names can be linked to ARCH's success, Ellerman said. "A foundation was laid, and each time there was a change in who directed the program, another brick was put on that foundation that made it stronger. Each person added significantly to ARCH's development."

Don Moyer gets a lot of the credit for stabilizing the program and improving its services during a period when the home was becoming more clinically oriented, current and former managers agree.

Since its beginning, the home has focused on helping the male population, because it's "a whole new ball game" when you mix males with females in a halfway house, Divine said.

Besides having to contend with the usual male/female issues, there are a lot of other factors to consider, such as day-care and medical issues. "You also have to worry about setting up an educational component for the children, as well as prevention work," Divine noted.

"Operating an eight- to 10-bed female halfway house would be equal to what it costs to run an 18- to 20-bed home for males."

ARCH is licensed and funded by the Illinois Department of Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. The United Way has supported the home for more than 15 years, according to Jan Quarten, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area United Way.

"We operated on a shoestring (in the early 1970s)," recalled Wes Tobin, a former ARCH manager and current director of Employee Assistance at SEMC.

"We shopped at the old A&P, because one of the ARCH directors, Mr. (Ed) Stone, was the manager there."

"He was our treasurer, so we didn't have to pay those bills; lots of months we had some big minutes. We would always save the food bill for last."

When Tobin joined ARCH in May 1973, he became its first full-time paid manager. The others had been live-ins who received free room and board as compensation.

"I think my salary was $5,500," he said. "The assistant manager at that time received $2.50 a day, plus free room and board."

Program directors of the past were recovering alcoholics who had no formal education or training in the field. Now they are degree professionals.

Divine has a master of social work degree, and the two full-time counselors who work at ARCH also hold college degrees. The typical client in the formative years was the older, chronic alcoholic at the end of his rope.

Tobin said the home used to be "a dumping ground" for such clients, who were frequently sent by the only two treatment centers in the area at the time. One of the centers was in Alton and one in East St. Louis.

"It's a much younger crowd now with a much higher success rate," Tobin said of ARCH's client mix. "The average age was in the 50s when I was there." Now, treating 18-year-olds is not uncommon.

Divine said, "They look just like your nephews, brothers and sons."

ARCH's director added that it's good news that the client population has gotten younger.

"It saves people a lot of (years of) misery," he said.

"Cocaine has speeded up the whole process remarkably; it speeds up all those negative consequences. People who use cocaine tend to lose their jobs and families a lot faster."

"In the old days, you had alcoholics on one side and drug users on the other. The two are fused together now. We call these people who use a cornucopia of chemicals 'poly-abusers.'"

The new client is encouraged to foster his dependency first on the staff, then on Alcoholics Anonymous and AA sponsors, and ultimately on to a higher power. "The real recovery is the AA commitment," Divine said.

Ralph Hausmann, director of Social Work at SEMC, said ARCH's strong connection with AA has remained constant over the years. "It's always been important that you attend AA meetings to stay sober," he said.

When Divine talks about recovery, he likes to refer to the process as "re-peopleization."

He explained, "You surround yourself with sober people and have warning signs and a plan for dealing with stress. When the wolf is beating on the door, you have to know what to do."

"Unless there's a 'cure' for chemical dependency, I think ARCH will be a part of the treatment field that will continue to expand."

"Often, 30 days is just not enough time for treatment. It's like a blur to them," he said.

"We're a unique place. We get to see a six-month picture of this person. We get to know them as a person. We see them change. We get attached to them and they get attached to us."

"We're in a privileged spot. We get to see the finished product of all the treatment centers in the St. Louis area. We see what works and what doesn't."

ARCH has gone through three address changes but has remained in Granite City. Building codes and lack of space have necessitated each move, as ARCH watched its maximum occupancy triple in 20 years.

Soon, three more beds will be added, bringing the total ARCH can treat at any given time to 21.

"We're almost always full, with a waiting list of eight to 10," Divine said.

The first site of ARCH was in a dilapidated building on Grand Avenue. Some would call it a dump.

The second home also was in disrepair, but it had lots of character. There were an oak staircase and fireplace mantle, hardwood ceiling beams, and plenty of stained glass windows. At one time, the building served as a residence and office for the late Dr. Hamm, a local physician.

Since October 1988, ARCH has operated out of a two-story brick building on State Street. The building formerly housed clergy members from St. Joseph Catholic Church, now part of the Holy Family parish.

The building has all the features of a home — and then some. There are upstairs and downstairs-dormitory-style bedrooms with adjoining bathrooms; a group meeting room; a kitchen and dining area; two lounges, each with TVs; a recreation hall with table tennis and a pool table; and a laundry room.

Job rights face veto

By Tracy Corrington
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — A highly touted civil rights bill that would make it easier for workers to bring discrimination charges to court passed the Senate last week, but Sen. John C. Danforth, R-Mo., said Friday he fears it will go no farther than the White House.

The potential snag comes from quotas, racial and other hiring practices that could affect hiring and promotion processes.

Opponents of the bill say the legislation, as worded, would force businesses to adopt such quotas. President George Bush has repeatedly said he will not sign a bill that would lead to quotas.

"During the meeting with President Bush on Tuesday, he reiterated his desire for civil rights legislation," Danforth said. "The bill in its present form, however, does not resolve all of the President's concerns."

In fact, the bill "needlessly invites" a presidential veto, Danforth continued. "I am disappointed because this bill could have done a lot of good for those suffering discrimination in the workplace. Instead, the bill lives under the cloud of a presidential veto," Danforth said.

The bill passed 65-34, falling two votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

Ten Republicans out of the Senate's 45 party members, including Danforth, joined all 55 Democrats in voting for the bill.

The measure would reverse or modify six Supreme Court decisions and put the burden on employers to prove that their hiring requirements and tactics are not discriminatory.

The Supreme Court decisions had placed that burden of proof on employees, who were seeking in court to show that they were discriminated against.

Another provision would give victims of sexual harassment and religious or physical prejudice, such as disabled people, the ability to sue for compensatory and, in extreme cases, punitive damages. That right is now reserved for victims of racial discrimination.

For almost two weeks, Danforth negotiated passionately for a compromise with other Senate members and administration officials.

But those talks were ended when the Senate, in an effort to get the legislation approved, voted to limit debate on the bill.

Danforth says that's where the situation crumbled.

"We were on the brink of an agreement (between the Senate and the White House)."

"Now we have shot this bill down the tubes," Danforth said after the cloture vote. "We have just wasted the Senate's time in the name of saving the Senate's time."

The American Civil Liberties Union, the American Bar Association, the National Organization for Women, the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People support the bill.

The House Judiciary Committee most likely will mark up a similar civil rights bill next week. There is no date yet for a full floor debate in the House.

Pet tattoo clinic set Aug. 5

The Madison County Humane Society is sponsoring a pet tattoo clinic Aug. 5 in cooperation with Tattoo A Pet.

"Nearly one in five pets will become lost or stolen this year," a Humane Society spokesman said. "Usually, the result is permanent separation or death. Some stolen pets will be sold to kennels that supply pets for use in research."

"Pet tattooing is a permanent technique that will help protect your pet against theft and prevent the animal from ending up in a research lab."

The tattoo clinic will be held Aug. 5 at Kritter Korner's new location in Edwardsville. Tattoo and registration fees are $20 per pet, but special rates are available for multiple families. The proceeds will benefit the Madison County Humane Society.

Persons may call Cindy at 288-9723 for more information or to make an appointment.

Start planning your '90 tax filing

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

If oppressive weather during these summer months has you looking for a reason to avoid yard work, here's a task you can do indoors: Review your 1990 taxes.

Examining your tax situation now gives you several months to put a plan into action, such as boosting your medical expense deduction by scheduling elective surgery for the fall.

That is a step that might be impossible in late December, tax advisers say.

"Don't wait for year-end," says Tom Cunniff, tax partner at Huber, Ring, Helm & Co. in Brentwood.

Some uncertainty is likely to color the tax outlook for the current year.

For instance, the word in accounting circles is that Congress and President George Bush's administration may not conclude their budget deficit talks until December, and the negotiations could lead to increased 1990 taxes, says Nancy Dahl, tax partner at Stone Carlie & Co. in Clayton.

Dahl recommends that taxpayers review the amount deducted from each paycheck for federal income tax withholding, particularly if you owed Uncle Sam money last year.

If too little is being withheld, boost the amount deducted.

"Federal income tax law requires your withholding to accumulate 90 percent of your expected 1990 tax bill or an amount equal to your 1989 taxes."

This review is especially important to recently laid off St. Louis metropolitan area residents who received a lump-sum severance payment. If taxes on that payment have not been deducted, the taxpayer has to set aside an appropriate amount, Dahl says.

"It's a good time to look at capital gains and losses," she says.

Up to $3,000 in losses can be deducted from regular income. If you sold a stock that had declined $10,000 in value, you can "carry forward" this year's $7,000 loss and deduct it in future years.

Or you can offset that loss by selling enough shares of another stock to realize a $7,000 capital gain.

If you make a profit of $8,000 on the stock, the extra $1,000 is taxed as ordinary income.

Given the climbing stock market of recent weeks, it is more likely a taxpayer will have capital gains this year, says Nick Maduri, a partner with Trageser & Associates of Belleville.

Then you will want to take losses to offset those gains, thus reducing your 1990 tax bill.

Maduri cautions against "letting the tax tail wag the dog." A midyear review should focus primarily on financial planning and investment strategies, less on taxes, he says.

One tax tactic is "bunching" medical expenses; only expenses that exceed 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income are deductible, Cunniff points out.

If medical bills have been high this year, you might want to have that elective surgery, and pay for it, in 1990 to boost that deduction, Cunniff says.

Similarly, your miscellaneous expenses, such as accounting and legal fees, unreimbursed business expenses, and special work clothes, can be accelerated into 1990 or pushed back to 1991.

For example, if it looks like miscellaneous expenses will not exceed 2 percent of adjusted income, you might want to "bunch" expenditures planned for this year into 1991, increasing the possibility you will be able to take the deduction next year.

Cunniff notes that only 10 percent of interest paid on auto loans, credit card charges and other personal debt will be deductible in 1990.

The deductions will be eliminated in 1991.

So you might want to pay off loans early to eliminate interest payments in 1991, he says.

Another option is to consolidate those debts with a home equity loan, says Dave Monday, tax manager for Coopers & Lybrand in downtown St. Louis. Interest paid on the home equity loan is considered mortgage interest, which is fully deductible.

Monday suggests taxpayers make a contribution into their Individual Retirement Account because the deposit immediately begins earning interest, which accumulates tax free until you retire.

For a similar reason, he tells clients who own an apartment building to undertake needed repairs as soon as possible.

The sooner the new roof is installed, for example, the more depreciation the taxpayer can recognize on his 1990 taxes, he says.

At the very least, taxpayers should gather tax receipts accumulated so far, instead of waiting until December, Monday says. Then you will have just six months' worth of receipts to find when you sit down to figure your 1990 tax bill.

College establishes formal goals

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE—For the first time in the school's history, Belleville Area College has a formal mission statement and institutional goals.

Belleville Area College upholds the dignity and worth of all people and believes that learning is a lifelong process which enhances the quality of life.

The college provides for individual growth through educational excellence and active partnerships with students and the community," says the mission statement approved by the BAC board of trustees at its meeting July 18.

Developing a mission statement and institutional goals is the first step in developing a five-year plan for the college that will be continually revised and updated as conditions change, said Joe Cipri, BAC president.

"From here, we'll go on to developing divisional goals and divisional objectives," Cipri said.

The process of formulating the mission statement and goals began last fall, when several committees, comprised of students, faculty, staff and administrators, held brainstorming sessions to come up with rough drafts of both documents.

The committees' input was then given to a synthesis committee, comprised of representatives from all levels of the college. This committee prepared the mission statement and goals in their final form.

Board member Janet McReynolds, who co-chaired the synthesis committee with board member Don Theobald, said the whole process was a rewarding experience.

"The part I like about it was it gave us a very humane look at the college," McReynolds said. "It gave us an opportunity to develop collegiality and harmonious relations among the students, faculty and staff."

The 12 institutional goals drafted by the synthesis committee include:

- Assume a leadership role in the community by contributing to the educational, cultural and economic well-being of the region.

- Promote an attitude of respect and concern that fosters personal growth for students, faculty and staff.

- Provide baccalaureate-oriented programs that offer transferability and career programs that meet employment requirements.

- Implement an ongoing strategic planning process which facilitates the prioritization and evaluation of programs, services and personnel.

St. Louis work force has to adjust to 'peace outbreak'

By Laura J. Hopper
Staff writer

ST. LOUIS — Saying that the global "outbreak of peace" metropolitan leaders on Thursday announced a concerted effort to retrain dislocated workers and diversify this region's economy.

The regional program comes in response to announcements that McDonnell Douglas Corp. will lay off 4,700 workers at St. Louis and Chrysler Corp. will lay off 3,700.

The program will involve St. Louis city, the Missouri counties of St. Charles, Franklin and Jefferson, and the Illinois counties of Madison, Monroe and St. Clair.

Regional Commerce and Growth Association Chairman Andrew N. Baur, St. Louis County Executive H.C. Milford and St. Louis Mayor Vincent C. Schoemehl Jr. announced the plan at a news conference at the BCGA office in downtown St. Louis.

Schoemehl called the McDonnell layoffs "a wake-up call" for St. Louis metropolitan leaders and businesses.

"For perhaps the first time in its history, this community is facing the fact that it is disproportionately dependent upon the defense industry," he said. "This is a serious problem for the regional economy, and it extends into the state of Missouri and the state of Illinois."

The regional program will require local, state and federal funding. The officials said they would seek funds from the federal Department of Defense, Department of Labor, Economic Development Administration and Small Business Administration as well as other sources.

As funds are obtained, the program will involve the following steps:

• Research, including studies of the economic impact of the layoffs, the industries that are growing and will need skilled workers in the 1990s, the existing assistance programs for workers, and the successful efforts of other communities that have diversified their economies.

• Job training, which will involve assessing the skills of unemployed workers and providing education, training and placement for the workers in the industries that have been identified as growing.

• Assistance for workers, who may want to start their own businesses, including training, technical assistance and expanded loan programs.

• Community outreach, which will involve communicating the availability of programs and resources to workers and businesses that need them, promoting St. Louis efforts to confront the layoffs in "an aggressive and coordinated manner," and providing a forum for input from citizens.

Schoemehl admitted that the shutdown of the Chrysler plant may require a different approach than the McDonnell layoffs. Chrysler has said it will close its No. 1 Plant, located in Fenton, on Nov. 9.

A community outreach program for Labor Research, released Thursday, estimated that the Chrysler layoffs could have a "ripple effect" on other area businesses, leading to a total loss of 12,636 jobs and $3.8 billion to the St. Louis economy.

Schoemehl said negotiations are continuing to keep the Fenton plant open.

"Everyone would love to see that plant saved, and that's the short-term strategy," he said. But Schoemehl said that such an action, if successful, would mask the long-term problems that St. Louis' economy would face without major changes.

"We cannot respond just to the symptoms," he said. "We have to look beyond the McDonnell situation, beyond the Chrysler situation. Our economy is being affected by changes in international relations and the international economy."

Milford said St. Louis County already has begun efforts toward the first step in the program: studying the impact of the layoffs and finding which industries will need workers in the 1990s.

The county is applying for federal grants of $100,000 each for two such studies, one for Chrysler's workers and one for McDonnell's.

Applications for both grants will be delivered to Washington, D.C., on Aug. 1, Milford said. Joseph Cartwright of the U.S. Defense Department's Office of Economic Adjustment met with Milford last week to plan the application for the McDonnell Douglas grant.

St. Louis should have no problem obtaining the grant, Cartwright said at a news conference later.

Milford said the county also will apply to the Department of Labor for the Chrysler grant.

Once federal funding arrives, joint studies of the workers' skills and which industries will need those skills will begin, said Dennis Coleman, director of the county's Economic Council.

Such industries could include telecommunications, health, science and education, Milford said.

Literacy bill nears approval

WASHINGTON — Sen. Paul Simon stood behind a four-foot wall of books to make a point. The books equaled the 465,000 pages of technical data a modern automobile mechanic needs in order to diagnose and repair motor vehicles.

The point: The jobs available that don't require at least minimum reading and writing skills are dwindling.

Simon joined Rep. Thomas Sawyer, D-Ohio, at a news conference to celebrate House passage of Sawyer's bill, Literacy For All Americans, on July 20. The Sawyer bill was part of an omnibus education measure, the Equity and Excellence in Education Act, passed by the House on a 359-25 vote.

Simon is sponsor of the Senate counterpart, the National Literacy Act, which passed the Senate 99-0 on Feb. 6. A House-Senate conference committee will work out differences between the two pieces of legislation.

Simon's goal is to end illiteracy by the year 2000. To do that, both bills would boost and coordinate private, local, state and federal literacy efforts.

Both expand current adult education programs and both emphasize teacher training and development.

Both the Simon and Sawyer bills also would charter a national literacy center, which would be a national resource base for literacy efforts nationwide.

The Simon bill places more emphasis on teaching family members and the unemployed to read and write. The Sawyer bill has a greater emphasis on workplace literacy and technology development.

"Literacy is much like mental retardation was two decades ago. We have to bring it out of the closet and out into the open," said Simon.

Simon noted that one in five Americans falls short of the basic reading skills needed to function day to day. Another statistic cited: 170,000 students out of each million who graduate from high school each year are not equipped with the basic skills they need to be productive citizens.

Hagauer and St. Clair County Board Chairman Francis Touchette, along with county officials Thelma Chalmers of St. Clair and Dan Chausovich of Madison County, directors of the worker retraining programs.

"I am a strong supporter of the federal Job Training Partnership Act, which funds these local worker retraining programs," Costello said. "It is essential that we have initiatives ready to provide workers with the tools necessary to move on to other good-paying jobs."

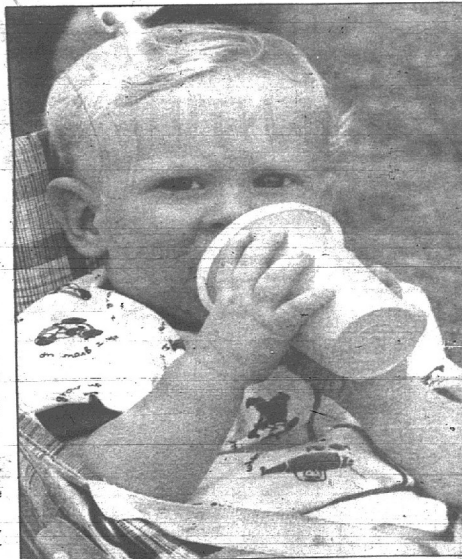

The local officials informed Costello that programs for retraining, financial counseling and benefit coordination are in place to assist workers. In addition, both counties will sponsor pre-layoff workshops with Illinois employees and distribute surveys to determine the areas of greatest need for families that will be affected.

"Every effort will be made in my (21st Illinois) congressional district to help skilled workers move to other jobs," Costello said.

Costello also briefed the officials on legislation he recently co-sponsored which is moving through the House, the Defense Conversion Assistance Act of 1990.

The legislation would, among other things, extend from 26 weeks to 52 weeks the unemployment insurance for workers who are laid off due to cuts in the federal defense budget.

"This bill is critical to assisting the thousands of workers nationwide who will lose their jobs as a result of growing reductions in the defense budget," Costello said.

Obituaries

Bolton

Virgil "Pete" Bolton, 78, of Granite City died at 3:15 a.m. Sunday, July 22, 1990, at Notre Dame Hills Living Center, Belleville, where he had resided since June. He had been in ill health since November 1989.

Born Nov. 17, 1911, in Alton, Mo., he had lived in Granite City for 63 years. He retired in 1972 from Miles Laboratories, Granite City, where he had worked in the store-room for 38 years.

Mr. Bolton was a World War II Army veteran and was of the Protestant faith. A member of the American Association of Retired Persons, Pontoon Beach Senior Citizens and the Anchorage Card Club, he was active in senior bowling.

Survivors include his wife, Vera (Becker) Bolton, whom he married May 20, 1938, in St. Louis; one son, Kenneth Bolton of St. Jacob; one sister, Mrs. Herschel (Inis) Gann of Granite City; and two granddaughters.

Venue was held Monday at Irwin Chapel, 3960 Maryville Road, where funeral services were conducted Tuesday by the Rev. Allen Reiter. Burial was at Sunset Hill Memorial Estates near Edwardsville.

payments ranging from $1,400 for the Pine Street house to $11,600.70 for the highest-priced Oakmont building. The prosecution charges all are false.

Both Clark and Fox testified the loans would not have been granted if it were known any one of the statements was false.

In cross-examination, both Fox and Clark were asked to go through the more than 34 documents in the FBI files on the loans and tell if Flood's name or signature appeared on any of the documents.

Both, after going through each file, testified it did not.

In his opening statement, Daly said Bowler had seen seminars on television, and even attended one in person, on how to become a millionaire by buying property with no money down.

Daly contended that, in the Oakmont purchases, Bowler represented that he had $62,000 available for downpayments when in fact he had "zero dollars" available.

The prosecution contends Bowler showed the money in his bank account by borrowing it, including $36,000 from Flood, temporarily.

He then "covered" the reported downpayments, the prosecution contends, by inflating the reported purchase prices of the properties at the closing.

Bowler, in February 1989, pleaded guilty to a single felony count of making a false statement on a loan application.

Bowler had been indicted in December 1988 on four counts of making false statements on loan applications, but the other three counts were dropped in return for his guilty plea. He is expected to testify at Flood's trial, which is scheduled to take several days.

Criminal probe of Germania

ALTON — A state agency has started a criminal investigation of Germania Bank's 1987 sale of insured capital notes, according to sources.

The Securities Division of the Illinois Secretary of State's Office has subpoenaed Germania records to see if there were irregularities in the sale of $8 million of the insured notes, sources said.

State investigators want to know if the notes were sold by unlicensed employees, a violation of the state securities law. Investigators are also trying to determine whether Germania officials misrepresented the notes' value and security, also a violation of state law.

Heidi Brown, enforcement attorney with the Securities Division, confirmed that the state is investigating Germania but declined to discuss details.

Germania sold more than $10 million in subordinated capital notes to 800 people in Illinois and Missouri in 1987 to pump new operating money into the ailing bank, Barbara Bara of the U.S. Office of Thrift Supervision said. More than $3 million in notes were sold in Alton and at other Illinois branches, Bara said.

"We don't know whether holders of the notes will ever get their money back," she said. Buyers paid a minimum of $2500 for each note. The notes were to be repaid in 1997, she said.

The capital notes essentially were 100% from the savings and loan to the buyer. They were not deposits or ownership shares in the company.

The federal government seized the insolvent $785-million federal savings bank June 22 and appointed the Resolution Trust Corp. to manage the company. Germania's 13 branches in Illinois and Missouri remain open for business.

State investigators will question bank officials to see if unlicensed employees at the Alton branch sold the notes, sources said.

"There is a question of whether the notes were sold legally," Frank Duda, an attorney for the note holders, said.

If the Securities Division finds that the notes were sold by unlicensed employees, the notes can be declared void, Duda said.

If the notes are void, note holders could move up the ladder to a preferred creditor in Germania," he said. "Note holders now will be paid last, if there is any money left."

In addition to the $10 million raised from customers, Germania sold another $5.7 million in notes to Laclede Gas Co. of St. Louis.

Sale of notes by unlicensed employees is a violation of the Illinois Securities Law, a Class A misdemeanor, a state securities official said.

Germania officials nickname the notes "Schnotes," a name that means subordinated capital notes, Duda said.

Customers were approached in the lobby and asked if they wanted to buy a schnote," Duda said. "Germania thought that 'schnote' had a catchy marketing ring to it."

Investigators will interview note holders to determine if Germania officers gave them a prospectus that listed the value and risks of buying the notes, sources said.

"Germania didn't tell us the truth when they sold us these notes," note holder Ralph Asbury of Moro said.

Asbury said he may lose $3000. "Germania made the notes sound tempting to us," Asbury said. "They said they would pay 11 percent interest. They told us not to worry because the notes were insured through Germania."

Duda said note holders would cooperate with the securities investigation.

"We'll furnish the state with files and interview with people who bought the notes," Duda said.

Germania reported a net loss of $12.9 million in 1989. About $155 million in assets, or 16.5 percent of the bank's asset base, is classified as substandard, doubtful or a loss, Bara said.

Bank deposits are federally insured up to $100,000 per individual, but capital notes are uninsured and unsecured, Bara said.

Triplets, Edwardsville take first step

Section B
WEDNESDAY, JULY 25, 1990
GRANITE CITY JOURNAL

BRIAN HARSHANY and his Post 113 teammates managed only four hits, but the Triplets squeaked past Wood River 1-0 in the North Division playoffs Monday.

Lignoul's hit beats Wood River

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — The Triplets had been down this road before. Late Monday night, they finally made the right turn. Chad Lignoul's single to right drove in Kurt Hodges as Post 113 pulled out a gut-wrenching 1-0 victory over Wood River in the opening game of the District 22 North Division double elimination playoffs at Varsity Field. The Triplets (15-9) advanced to face Edwardsville in the winner's bracket at 8 p.m. Tuesday, while Wood River tumbled Alton in the loser's bracket.

The winner of the Granite City-Edwardsville game Tuesday can take Wednesday off and will have two chances to win one game and the tournament Thursday and Friday for a berth in the best-of-three District 22 finals this weekend against the South Division champion.

"We don't have to play them this close," said a relieved Post 113 manager Ralph Burnett. "I would have rather played anyone but these guys. I was thinking about this one all day."

"It was scary to death of this game," said coach Tom Hennrich. The reason for their fear came a week ago Sunday, when the Triplets blasted Wood River 20-0. Granite City knew it wouldn't be so easy this time, and they were right. But Burnett said the team had all the answers on the mound as he improved his record to 4-3 by striking out 10 in a gutsy eight-inning performance.

"Butch didn't have anything in the first couple innings," said catcher Joe Wallace. "He wasn't even making my mitt pop in the early part of the game, and I have a new mitt. But Butch is a great competitor. He's the best I've seen. He's better than (Edwardsville's Tom) Price."

Wallace later hedged on that (See TRIPLETS, Page 4B)

Price (13 Ks) too much for Alton

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Tom Price gave District 22 hitters a bit of a break this summer. But he's back and playing no favorites when it matters the most. Price, Edwardsville's ace left-hander, missed a great deal of the American Legion season while on the road with the Olympic Festival. He was only 2-1 in the regular season, but things were back to normal Monday at Varsity Field. Post 199, the No. 2 seed, began the North Division playoffs with a 9-0 win over 3-seed Alton. Price pitched a two-hitter, striking out 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Semifinal games, the third-place game and the championship will be Sunday (same starting times).

Greenville (11-5), O'Fallon (15-1) and Waterloo (15-2) won their respective divisions and will play each other in the playoffs. The winners of the playoffs will play each other in the championship game. The winners of the playoffs will play each other in the championship game.

to survive the tournament. "Price was just too tough for us," said Alton manager Karl Dorsch. "At 3-0, I thought we should have a shot. We can't afford to give anything away in a game like this, but we did."

Edwardsville scored its second and third runs without the benefit of a hit before exploding for six runs on six hits in the fifth. Tim Miller had broken the scoreless tie with a home run off losing pitcher Arthur Knight in the second.

Mark Little scored the second run in the third on an error by catcher Ron Hornsby. Little held at third on J.J. Scerba's ground (See PRICE, Page 4B)

Optimists get final bye into SBA finals

By Brian Henry
Correspondent

It came right down to the 11th hour, but the Optimists finally found out their playoff status Monday night.

Columbia lost a suspended game to Waterloo and another to New Baden on Monday, giving Granite City a bye into the Southwest Baseball Association finals this weekend. The Optimists (11-6 in the SBA, 17-9 overall) will likely play Greenville in the first quarterfinal game Saturday at 10 a.m.

Granite City wrapped up the regular season with a 9-2 win at Lebanon on Thursday as Randy Scott pitched a two-hitter while striking out a season-high 13.

"If we could get a few days away it would be a big help," said Optimist manager Paul Kacera, who indicated Brian Tiemann would start Saturday's game.

Kacera's players wanted to make sure of the bye as they jumped out to a 6-0 lead in the first inning Thursday, scoring all six runs after two were out. Larry Earney reached on an error with two outs to score Chris Hildreth with the first run and making all the runs unearned. Stacy Jackson followed with a two-run double, Billy Van Buskirk tripled home Jackson and Jay Robertson singled home Van Buskirk. Robertson went to third on a wild pitch and a stolen base before Hildreth's single made it 6-0.

With the big cushion, Scott coasted through the Lebanon lineup, striking out the side in the second, fourth and seventh innings.

"Randy pitched real well, as he has done all season," said coach Marty LeVault. "He kept the ball down and was in control the whole way."

The teams traded runs in the second. Erik Lewis drove in Chris Milton, then Milton and Jackson added RBIs in the sixth for the final margin of victory. Jackson's single off the pitcher's glove scored Earney all the way from first.

NOTES: O'Fallon lost its first game of the season 5-4 in 14 innings to Greenville on July 18, but is still the top seed in the eight-team SBA finals. They will likely play in the last quarterfinal game at 5:30 p.m. Saturday.

Other games are at 10 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. Semifinal games, the third-place game and the championship will be Sunday (same starting times).

Greenville (11-5), O'Fallon (15-1) and Waterloo (15-2) won their respective divisions and will play each other in the playoffs. The winners of the playoffs will play each other in the championship game. The winners of the playoffs will play each other in the championship game.

Purdes gets call to defend national title

Dr. Alice Purdes
... defending champion

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

They say it can be harder to defend a title than to win it the first time. To Dr. Alice Purdes, it certainly will be more nerve-racking.

Purdes took a gold medal in bowling at the United States Senior Olympics last summer in St. Louis. She was recently informed officially that she has been invited to defend that title in the 1991 National Senior Olympics, to be held in Syracuse, N.Y., next June 28 through July 3.

"I didn't get nervous at all last year," she said. "I was 'Never Nervous Purdes.' But I don't think that will happen again. The more I think about it, I get a little queasy."

She has almost a full year to get over that queasiness or to feel it increase. But for now, Dr. Purdes is just happy to be active again after surgery last October.

A teacher at Venice-Lincoln Tech for many years, the Madison resident said her game actually improved a little after a six-week layoff. She isn't bowing this summer, but plans to get back into two leagues in the fall.

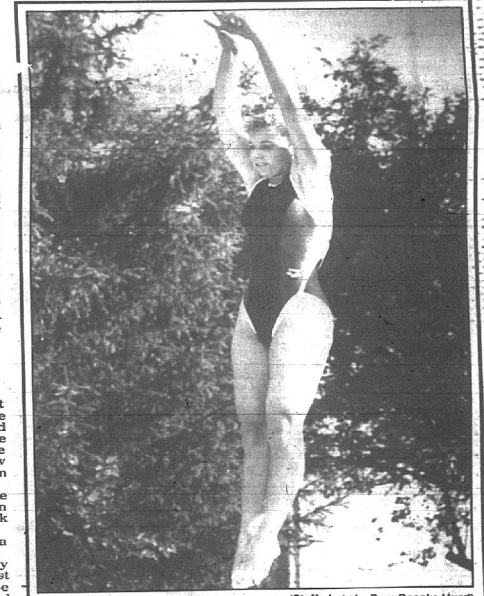

"I'd like to go to the state (Senior Olympics) in September," she said. "But the singles competition starts on Friday, and we have school that day. I guess they think all of us are retired."

So she will wait until next summer. By then, she will have turned 60 and will thus be moved up into the next age bracket. She won her title in the 55-59 age group last summer, but now she'll be among the youngest in her group.

"I guess the pressure will be on me," she said. "If I can maintain a 175 average, I think I'll be all right."

Purdes plans on driving a mobile home to Syracuse. "I would like to take my nieces," she said. "They're just little ones, but they would be good for cheering. And a friend or two would be nice."

Purdes took another gold medal at regional competition at SIUE this spring.

JENNY BAKER and the rest of the Paddlers diving team will compete in the SWISA diving championships Saturday at Montclair in Edwardsville.

ball to short for the second out. But he broke for the plate and would have been out easily, but Hornsey missed the throw. An error, two stolen bases by Dave Slemmer and Todd Zude's infield out made it 3-0 in the fourth.

"I was a little concerned when it was only 2-0," said Edwardsville manager Ken Schaaake. "We had made some mistakes on the bases and hadn't hit the ball that well."

But that ended in the fifth against relievers Joey Porter and Brian Mossman. Slemmer, Greg Morrison, Zude and Little all had RBI hits to break it open.

Price, meanwhile, fanned the side in the second, fourth and fifth innings and had at least one strikeout in every inning. He allowed only a single up the middle by K.C. Doucless in the third and a two-out single by Jeff Mossman off second baseman Steve Flowers' glove in the seventh.

last proclamation, but it was clear the catcher had tons of respect for his pitcher Monday.

"There can't be a better competitor than Butch," said Burnett. "He's got a lot of heart and it would have been a shame for him not to win this one."

The Triplets won it just in time for Senecyn, as he would not have pitched the ninth inning. But it took an unearned run to hand Wood River starter Brian Evans a tough loss. He gave up only four hits and struck out eight. But third baseman Tyler Arnold threw away Hodges' ground ball with one out in the eighth and Hodges ended

He held at third when Jeff Stephens singled to right, then Ligonoul stuck his bat out on a two-strike pitch and found the gap in right-center.

"I would have walked Chad," said Burnett. "Then you can play even with the bag and get either the force at home or the double play. But Chad did a good job. He hit the ball hard."

In addition to Lignoul and Senecyn, add right fielder Ryan Reeves to the list of heroes. He threw out two runners at the plate. Right fielder Matt Fischer, who had four of Wood River's six hits, doubled in the first and tried to score on Evans' single to right. But Reeves made a perfect throw, and Wallace had the ball waiting for Fischer. Evans was then out stealing third.

Troy Ufert walked to lead off the seventh, went to second on sacrifice and tried to score on Arnold's hit to right. Reeves' throw was a little to the right of the plate, but Wallace fielded it and Ufert dived over him to avoid the tag. But he didn't get the plate and Wallace tagged him as Ufert tried to come back.

Wood River argued the call vehemently, but the Triplets avoided further trouble as the visitors left two men on in the eighth.

"It's a tough game to lose as well as we played," said Wood River manager Fred Ufert, who along with his players was arguing with the umpires after the game. "We're really in trouble

Twice in the last three years the Triplets had lost the first playoff game and couldn't bounce back. Only once — in 1988 — did they open the playoffs with a win and went on to win the district. League MVP Darin Hendrickson did the honors in the opener against Highland that year by the score of — you guessed it — 1-0.

"We talked about that before the game," Burnett said. "Woodson River had nothing to lose after the way we beat them last week, and we were very tight tonight. We've beaten them 21-0 in the last two games, but that's about all you can say. This one had to be fun to watch, but only for the fans."

Rich Schardan was scheduled to pitch against lefty Dave Jones in Tuesday's game.

New nurse bonus plan by Army

Congress has approved a $5,000 lump-sum incentive bonus for registered nurses, according to the U.S. Army Recruiting Command's Army Nurse Corps Division.

Registered nurses in Missouri and Illinois who sign up for a four-year, active-duty tour, and who otherwise qualify, are paid $5,000 when they report to their first permanent duty assignment following the officer basic course.

"New nursing graduates are concerned about pay as well as professional opportunities," said Sgt. 1st Class Randall Martin. "The Army offers nurses many incentives: training, professional advancement and benefits. But take-home pay is important, too."

To receive this new bonus, an individual must be a licensed registered nurse, may not have received any financial assistance from the Department of Defense to pursue a baccalaureate degree, and must qualify for appointment as a Nurse Corps officer.

The offer is available only to applicants who have been selected for active duty and are commissioned between Nov. 29, 1989, and Sept. 30, 1991.

Applicants may not hold an appointment as a Nurse Corps officer in the Army, Navy or Air Force at the time of application. However, enlisted soldiers and officers of branches other than Nurse Corps are eligible if they meet all other criteria.

Former Nurse Corps officers who resigned their commission at least 12 months before applying are also eligible for the bonus.

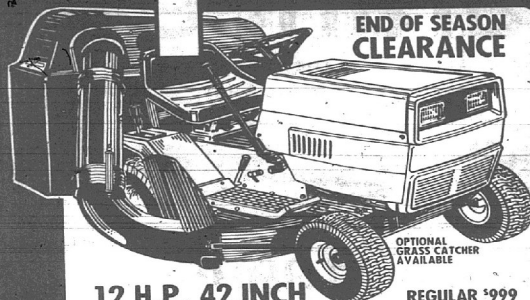

"Though the Army did very well last year in meeting its mission, nurse recruiting is competitive. The Army's standards require attracting highly qualified professionals, and this bonus helps us stay competitive," Martin said.

Nurses who are interested in more information on the $5,000 bonus and other Army nurse programs may contact the Army Nurse recruiter at 13545 Barrett Parkway, St. Louis.

Food

Fill up, but do not fill out, with smart choices in food

Calorie counting once was the sole province of dieters who set low-calorie goals in an effort to lose weight and improve their appearance. In the past few years, however, many people learned that overeating and excess weight can increase the risk of heart disease.

Recently research has begun to show that extra calories also may be a factor in causing or promoting cancer. Studies funded in part by the American Institute for Cancer Research have shown that laboratory rats exposed to cancer-causing agents put on restricted-calorie diets have fewer, smaller and slower-growing cancers. The fewer calories consumed, the greater the protection.

Reducing calories in a diet does not have to mean eating less food. The best strategy is to eat more bulky foods — such as vegetables, fruits and whole grains — that take longer to eat and fill the stomach quickly. The result is a full feeling without excess calories. Foods to avoid or eat in moderation are those concentrated high-calorie, high-fat foods that can be eaten quickly yet take up little space in the stomach — leaving a craving for more food.

For example, 1 cup shredded cabbage contains only 20 calories. Mix it with ½ tablespoon mayonnaise for coleslaw and the calories jump 250 percent. It is smarter to use 1 tablespoon plain nonfat yogurt and seasonings to keep calories under control. If yogurt tastes a little tart, add a dash of sugar. Those few extra calories are much less than the concentrated calories of a high-fat item like mayonnaise.

To learn how to lose weight using good nutrition and common sense, get a free copy of "Get Fit, Trim Down," by sending a self-addressed, business-size envelope stamped with 45 cents postage to: American Institute for Cancer Research, Department TD, Washington, D.C. 20039.

Bamboo Shoot Skillet Stew uses low-calorie ingredients to produce a tasty and filling dish with only 195 calories per serving. The flavor of this stew lends a sweet spiciness to both the fish and vegetables. For a complete meal, it can be served over nutritious brown rice.

Bamboo shoot

skillet stew

- 1 lb. fish filets (cod, haddock, flounder, red snapper, etc.), fresh, or frozen and thawed.
- 1 small onion, sliced
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 5 medium fresh or 1 can (28 oz.) tomatoes
- 2 tbsp. soy sauce
- 1 cup canned bamboo shoots, drained, cut in small pieces
- 4 drops pepper sauce
- Black pepper
- Pinch basil
- Pinch ginger
- Pinch cloves
- Pinch thyme

In large skillet, cook onion and garlic in ½ cup water until tender. Add tomatoes, soy sauce, honey, bamboo shoots, pimiento, pepper sauce, black pepper to taste, basil, ginger, cloves and thyme to skillet. Bring to boil. Reduce heat to low.

Add fish. Simmer 15 to 20 minutes until it turns solid white.

Makes 4 servings, 195 calories and 1 gm. fat each.

Registered dietitian Karen Collins reviews this material for the American Institute for Cancer Research in Washington, D.C.

Separate fat fact from fiction and clear up 'eating' fantasies

The St. Louis District Dairy Council offers "Healthy Dividends" as a practical way of managing daily eating patterns for optimum health.

Fat is today's hot nutrition topic. Yet a recent Gallup poll for the American Dietetic Association and the International Food Information Council showed that many consumers are confused about fat and choose foods based on their perception of "good" or "bad" foods.

One in three Americans mistakenly believes that high-fat foods cannot fit into a healthful diet, even when balanced by low-fat choices. The data further indicates that more than half these people are needlessly eliminating certain foods, such as red meat and dairy foods, from their diets.

Sherril Hoyt, registered dietitian for the St. Louis District Dairy Council, says, "It is alarming to see that nutrient-dense foods from the four food groups are being avoided to reduce fat and lower calories. Eliminating these foods could result in different, but equally dramatic, health risks."

What is your consumer fat IQ? Take this quick test to see if you can separate between fact and fiction about fat in your diet.

True or False?

1. Some foods are inherently good for you, while others should be eliminated from your diet.
2. Current medical advice recommends limiting calories from fat to 30 percent of the diet. To follow this advice, it is smart to eliminate high-fat foods from the diet.

3. Low-fat or no-fat foods are more nutritious than foods with fat.
4. Fat content is more important than portion size in a healthful diet.
5. Diet is the only risk factor for heart disease.

Multiple Choice

6. Which has more fat?
 - a. A croissant
 - b. A tablespoon of mayonnaise
 - c. Both are equal
7. Which of the following supplies the greatest amount of fat in our food supply?
 - a. Meats, poultry, fish, eggs and legumes
 - b. Milk, cheese, yogurt and frozen dairy desserts
 - c. Fruits, vegetables and grain products
 - d. Fats, oils and others

Fat Facts

1. False. There are no "good" or "bad" foods, only "good" or "bad" diets. A variety of foods in moderation from the Four Food Groups is the key to a well-balanced, healthful diet.
2. False. Foods high in fat can be part of a diet when they are balanced by lower fat trade-offs. While fat is important to consider when choosing foods, so are the other nutrients the food contains. If fat is used as the sole criterion for selecting food, the diet may be deficient in other nutrients, such as calcium, iron or riboflavin.

3. False. Low-fat foods are not necessarily more nutritious than higher fat counterparts. A diet soft drink, for example, contains no fat, but it also has no nutritive value. An avocado, on the other hand, contains fat, but it also provides many essential nutrients, such as vitamins A and C.

4. False. Both fat and portion size are important factors for choosing a healthful diet. By adjusting portion size, a variety of meats, desserts and snack foods can be included in a diet, while still budgeting fat intake to about 30 percent calories from fat.
5. False. Diet is a health risk for certain chronic diseases. But other factors — heredity, obesity, smoking and alcohol consumption among them — have been linked as well. Regular exercise, on the other hand, can be a protection from high blood cholesterol and cardiovascular disease.

6. c. The croissant and a tablespoon of mayonnaise have about the same amount of fat — about 10 grams.
7. d. Foods from the meat group provide about 38 percent of the fat in the American diet, dairy foods about 11 percent. Fruits and vegetables, as well as grain products, provide about 1 percent each. Fats, oils and all other foods contribute about 48 percent of the fat.

TOMATOES, FRESH from the garden or convenient from a can, add flavor with a variety of other vegetables and seasonings to Bamboo Shoot Skillet Stew.

Bountiful plums season year with tasty, blushing preserves

Wake up in months to come to a breakfast of muffins, pancakes or waffles and homemade preserves. Conserves and jams are easy to pack with fresh summer plums with the help of a microwave oven and conventional methods take only a little more time than that.

Top off breakfast food while rekindling a yearning for fresh plums with Quick Slim Jim Jam, which is low in calories and high in flavor. Jam by its nature has a softer consistency than jelly and will not be clear because of the chopped fruit.

For heartier fare, combine plums, raisins and nuts to make the unbeatable Plum 'N Rum Conserve. This is a contrast in taste and texture to breakfast ham and sausage. A conserve is similar to jam, but it may contain more than one fruit as well as nuts.

Quick Slim Jim jam

- 9 fresh plums (about 1 1/2 lb.), chopped
- 1/2 pkg. (2 tbsp. plus 2 tsp.) powdered pectin
- 1 tbsp. plus 1 tsp. (about 25 packets) sugar substitute
- 1/2 tsp. ginger

In 2-quart glass measure, microwave plums and pectin, uncovered, 15 minutes on high, stirring every 5 minutes until mixture boils hard and thickens. Stir in sweetener and ginger.

Pour into hot sterilized jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Cover with metal lids and screw on bands. Let stand at room temperature until cool.

Store in refrigerator up to 3 weeks or freeze up to 1 year. Makes 3 half-pints; 3 calories, trace protein, 1 gm. carbohydrate, no fat or cholesterol, trace sodium and fiber per 1 teaspoon.

Conventional method: In heavy 2-quart saucepan, cook plums and pectin about 20 minutes, stirring constantly, until fruit is desired thickness. Stir in sweetener and ginger. Seal and store as directed for microwave.

Plum 'n rum conserve

- 1 orange, including peel, thinly sliced, then cut in 1/2 inch widths
- 8 fresh plums, multicolored if desired, sliced (about 3 cups)
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 1/2 cup raisins
- 1/2 cup sliced almonds
- 1/2 cup coconut
- 2 tsp. dark rum

In 2-quart glass measure, combine orange, plums, sugar and raisins. Microwave, uncovered, on high 20 to 25 minutes, stirring every 5 minutes, until thickened. Add almonds, coconut and rum. Pour into hot sterilized jars, leaving 1/2-inch head space. Seal with caps and rings. Let stand at room temperature until cool.

Store in refrigerator up to 3 weeks or freeze up to 1 year. Makes 3 half-pint jars; 7 calories, trace protein and fat, 1 gm. carbohydrate, no cholesterol, trace sodium and fiber per 1 teaspoon.

Conventional method: In heavy 2-quart saucepan, combine orange, plums, sugar and raisins. Cook about 30 minutes, stirring constantly, until fruit is desired thickness. Add almonds, coconut and rum. Seal and store as directed for microwave.

Ripening is easy job to bag at home

If fully ripe peaches, nectarines, plums and pears are not available, they can be ripened at home in a day or two. Simply place the fruit in paper bag. Close the bag loosely. Let stand at room temperature until fruit is fragrant and soft to the touch.

Food

BLUEBERRY-PEACH CRISP is a delicious way to enjoy the summer's bounty of fresh fruit.

Blueberries add color, sweetness to favorites

They're like lively blue polka dots—in morning pancakes, in luncheon fruit salad, in frozen yogurt dessert. They are blueberries, nature's way of adding a spot of color, sweetness and nutrition to favorite foods.

Blueberries have a long history of popularity on this continent. They were the staple of North American Indians, and today some 95 percent of the world's blueberry crop comes from the United States and Canada. Limited geography is one reason for the short blueberry season—from May through September.

Serving fresh blueberries is easy. Just rinse and eat—no peeling, pitting, slicing or coring. A cupful contains only 62 calories, yet provides substantial amounts of vitamin C. They are a tasty way to get one of the five daily servings of fruits and vegetables recommended by the American Institute for Cancer Research.

Color and size are easy to spot hallmarks of quality blueberries. The best blueberries are large, dry, plump and have a powdery, light blue color. The waxy powder, called bloom, is nature's sunscreen. When it fades, the berries darken and become less firm and flavorful.

Fresh blueberries can last up to two weeks if stored in a refrigerator. Wait to wash them until just before using.

The following dessert is an easy way to enjoy summer's fresh blueberries and peaches in a recipe that uses less fat than other fruit crisps frequently do.

Blueberry-peach crisp

- 1/2 cup crunchy nugget-type cereal (such as Grape-Nuts)
- 1/2 cup uncooked oats
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 2 tbsp. plus 1 tsp. margarine or butter, melted
- 1 tsp. orange juice
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- 2 cups sliced peaches, peeled
- 2 cups blueberries

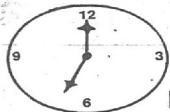

In bowl, combine cereal, oats and brown sugar. Stir in melted margarine.

Arrange fruit in 7-inch baking dish. Combine orange and lemon juices. Pour juice mixture over fruit. Top with cereal-oat mixture.

Bake at 375° for 25 to 30 minutes until peaches are tender but not mushy and top is lightly browned.

Serve warm or cold, plain or with milk.

Makes 4 to 6 servings, about 200 calories and 5 gm. fat each.

Summer food translates into salad

When the thermometer edges upward and a desire to cook looks like low tide, salads are an enticing way to attract those who are concerned with cool meals. Lettuce is not the only way to keep salads crisp. A variety of foods—like apples, celery, bell pepper and onion—aid the appealing feel of fruit and vegetables that explode with cooling moisture. These recipes contrast with other ingredients that make good use of leftovers.

Apple Country Salad

- 1 cup red apple
- 1 1/2 cups very small pieces cauliflower
- 8 oz. (about 1 1/2 cups) ham, cut in matchstick strips
- 4 oz. sharp cheddar cheese, cut in matchstick strips (about 1 cup)

- 1/2 cup finely diced celery
- 1 cup plain yogurt
- 1 tbsp. fruit chutney (preferably hot mango), peach or apricot preserves
- 1/2 to 1 tsp. curry powder, if desired

Dice unpeeled apple in 1/2-inch pieces. Combine with cauliflower, ham, cheese and celery in salad bowl.

Mix together yogurt, chutney and curry powder. Pour over salad. Toss to coat. Chill.

Makes 5 1/2 cups.

Recipes

Stuffed zucchini

- 4 medium zucchini
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 tsp. butter or margarine
- 1 cup uncooked instant rice
- 1 cup frozen Tomato Sauce, defrosted
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tsp. snipped fresh parsley
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce

Halve zucchini lengthwise. Scoop out pulp, leaving 1/4-inch shell. Chop pulp coarsely.

Place zucchini shells cut-side up on microwave-safe tray. Microwave, covered with plastic wrap, on high power 4 to 4 1/2 minutes until very hot.

Combine chopped zucchini, green pepper, celery, onion and butter in 2-quart casserole. Cook, covered, at high 5 to 8 minutes until tender, stirring after half the time. Stir in rice, tomato sauce, water, parsley, chili powder, salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce.

Microwave, covered, at high 4 to 9 minutes until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender.

Spoon into zucchini shells. Freeze until firm. Wrap in groups of four. Freeze no longer than 2 months.

To serve, unwrap one package and place shells on roasting rack. Microwave, covered with waxed paper, 5 to 10 minutes until hot, rearranging shells once. Let stand 5 minutes.

Ingredients are moistened.

Spoon batter into prepared cups. Bake at 400° for 15 to 17 minutes. Remove from cups. Cool a few minutes on wire rack. Serve warm.

Microwave onion-stuffed fish rolls

- 2 tbsp. butter or margarine
- 1 medium sweet onion, chopped
- 1 lb. fresh mushrooms, chopped
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. thyme leaves, crushed
- 4 or 5 white fish filets (about 1 1/2 lb.)
- Salt and pepper
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) cream of mushroom soup
- 1/2 cup dry white wine or milk
- 2 tbsp. chopped parsley

Melt butter in 1-quart microwave-safe bowl 30 to 40 seconds at high power. Stir in onion and mushrooms. Cook 4 to 5 minutes at high or until tender. Season with 1/4 teaspoon salt and thyme.

Sprinkle fish lightly with salt and pepper. Roll up each one carefully. Secure with picks. Place fish rolls in circle in 8-inch round glass cake dish.

Combine undiluted soup, wine and parsley. Spoon over fish. Cook, covered with plastic wrap, in microwave oven 10 to 12 minutes at high until fish is done, rotating every 5 minutes.

Makes 4 or 5 servings.

Garden Study gets Old Six Mile tour

The Garden Study Club met at the Old Six Mile Museum for its July meeting. Refreshments were served by hostess Shirley Stallings to 10 members and two guests, Georgia Engelke and Lilian Delps, past presidents of the Old Six Mile Historical Society.

A tour was given to the group, and a history of the house and area was given by Engelke. Guests were told that Old Six Mile Township (now Chouteau, Granite City, Nameoki and Venice townships) dates back to 1801. After the Wiggins family, built a small cabin on the north side of Horseshoe Lake; the settlement was called "Six Mile" because it was six miles from St. Louis.

When the Old Six Mile Historical Society was organized on May 18, 1981, it was named after the township. The chief purpose of the society was to purchase a building for a museum.

The Historical Society's meetings are held monthly September through June. The featured speakers discuss aspects of local history. Members provide programs for other organizations and school children.

After the tour and history of the museum, President Mary Stump called the meeting to order and took care of the business. Roll call was answered to "Do you grow herbs and do you dry them?"

On exhibit was a display of herbs, some taken from the herb garden of the museum, which the members of the Garden Study Club had planted two years ago. In the display were curled parsley, Italian parsley, basil, variegated sage, accented by pink Mamarda and Fever Few. The display was given to the hostess.

This past month's activities were: June 8, Catherine Kostoff, President; Stump, Nick Kostoff, Christine Hornberger and Kelly Ross planted four of the tall growing Yews in front of the Eagles F.O.E. 1116 Building at 2558 Madison Ave.; on June 25, tops were cut from tulips and the flower beds were cleaned at the Branch Library on Johnson Road by the Garden Study president.

A program on herbs was given and a copy of herb uses was passed among the members. A demonstration of a self-watering egg crate planter using egg crates, peat moss, pantihose and flower seeds was done and a handy tip was explained on how to use egg noodle packaging instead of broken clay pot shards in the bottom of flower pots.

A tour of the Botanical Gardens in St. Louis was planned.

Other members present were Jean Holder, Helen Meyer, Marie Oetkin, Mary Kelle and Irene Doroghazi.

For the next meeting, members will bring a plant, silk arrangement or craft to display and also a picture frame to make a dried floral picture. The next meeting will be at the home of Marie Oetkin on Aug. 1.

'Ghost' story line weak; Swayze, Moore don't mix

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

The name Patrick Swayze will draw some unwary moviegoers to the film "Ghost" (4½), but most will find their hopes of enjoyment to be an apparition.

Swayze plays Sam Wheat, an up-and-coming investment banker in New York. Demi Moore is Molly Jensen, an up-and-coming sculptor. As "Ghost" begins to materialize, we see Sam and Molly walking down a dark street late one evening after attending the theater. Sam is confronted by a mugger. They struggle. The mugger shoots. Sam dies. The mugger runs.

Later that same night, Sam sees himself in a hospital emergency room. It doesn't take Sam long to figure out that he is dead. While watching Molly's grief over his death, another ghost (an older man) strolls up to Sam and tells him the most difficult thing about being a ghost is getting used to walking through doors.

Soon Sam learns that his evil colleague at the investment bank, Tony, played by Carl Brunner, masterminded the "mugging." It all has to do with a complicated plot to launder money for some criminals. The mugger was hired by Tony.

Through the help of a medium named Oda Mae Brown, played in an able comic performance by

Harry Hamm

Whoopi Goldberg, Sam is able to communicate with Molly and upset the plans of the dastardly Tony. Sam also gets to say a weepy goodbye to Molly and let her know he really cared, as if that was in doubt.

The romantic chemistry between Swayze and Moore is about as exciting as getting your teeth cleaned. Goldberg and Swayze work well together and get some laughs, but this film's promise of romance just doesn't deliver and the story line is a long muddled mess.

Rated PG-13. Running time: 125 minutes. Rating guide: * excellent; , good; , average; *, poor.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

Summer of '71 featured freedom on big screen

Tired of this summer's crash-bang-boom movies and silly sequels? Return to the days when summer films were aimed at a college-educated adult audience.

Just a few years after the abolition of the old Hollywood Production Code that restricted certain kinds of stories, images and language in American movies, the summer of 1971 offered films that celebrated the new freedom of the screen.

Chief among these films was "Carnal Knowledge" (Embassy Home Entertainment, $14.98). Jules Feiffer's withering look at the infantile sexuality of the all-American male Jack Nicholson and Art Garfunkel play two college chums in the late '40s who pass on to middle-age in the early '70s without learning a thing about women or themselves. Under Mike Nichols' direction, the film grows visually cooler, moving from the warm autumnal tones of their campus days to the antiseptic white of their "successful" middle years. A stellar cast of actresses play the women in their lives: Candice Bergen, Carol Kane, Rita Moreno and Oscar-nominee Ann-Margret.

Jane Fonda won an Oscar for her gritty but touching portrayal of a call girl in "Klute" (Warner Home Video;

Mason Wiley

$39.98). Donald Sutherland plays a small-town detective who comes to the big city to investigate the disappearance of one of the town's leading citizens, who had the habit of hiring prostitutes on his trips away from home. Ostensibly a thriller, "Klute" works better as a character study of a modern urban woman coping with her need for independence vs. her desire for commitment.

Adolescent-sexual longing is the basis of Robert Mulligan's sensitive drama "Summer of '42" (Warner Home Video; $39.98). Robert Surtees' Oscar-nominated cinematography captures the nostalgic tone of this memoir of World War II America, when a teenager's crush on a soldier's young bride leads to a bittersweet result.

It seems that 1971 was about the last year Hollywood felt it necessary to produce Westerns. Blake Edwards' wonderful "Wild Rovers" (MGM/UA; $39.98) was horribly re-cut by MGM for its original release, but the director's full-length 138-minute version now is mercifully available on video. William Holden in one of his most moving performances, and a young Ryan O'Neal, star as a pair of cowboys who decide to turn to bank robbery.

Mason Wiley is a contributor to GQ, Elle, Time, Premiere, Cosmopolitan and The New York Times.

Opening ceremonies took place in the new Red Bird Building with the Decatur Park Singers performing. The closing featured a dance with "DJ and Dancing Bear."

A special plaque was presented to Kay and Sandra Hahne by the local athletes, signifying the women as their "special coaches of the year."

Kay Hahne served as head coach with Sandra Hahne as assistant coach.

Local student goes to Girls State

Allison Dumoulin of Granite City, an honor student was chosen to represent the Tri City Unit 113 American Legion Auxiliary for the 50th Annual Girls State Program.

Girls State is sponsored by the Illinois District of the American Legion Auxiliary and was held at Eastern Illinois University at Charleston.

Allison is the daughter of Carol Allen. She is an honor student and a member of the high school band.

She gave a report of her experiences at Charleston to the unit 113 members recently at the Legion Hall 1829 State St.

More than 575 young women attended the Girls State. The purpose of the programs is to provide citizenship training by having participants live and work in a-mythic "State," patterned on the State of Illinois governmental bodies as closely as possible.

Organizations

The girls were afforded an opportunity to live together as self governing citizens and to "learn by doing" the duties and responsibilities as well, and its rights and privileges.

The government in action program is geared to girls who have completed their junior year of high school.

It is designed to provide the young women a better understanding of the functioning of government through direct participation in its many aspects.

Participants form two political and live in separate cities. They organize elections, campaigns and hold conventions and caucuses.

Dorothy Hinson of Madison is director of the Illinois Girl State Program.

During the program they elect city, county and state officials and performed the duties pertaining to various public offices.

Through this process they learned about the election laws, balloting and petitioning and they also receive instructions in Parliamentary procedures and Americanism.

'Ghost' story line weak; Swayze, Moore don't mix

By Harry Hamm
Staff writer

The name Patrick Swayze will draw some unwary moviegoers to the film "Ghost" (R), but most will find their hopes of enjoyment to be an apparition.

Swayze plays Sam Wheat, an up-and-coming investment banker in New York. Demi Moore is sculptor. As "Ghost" begins to materialize, we see Sam and Molly walking down a dark street late one evening after attending the theater. Sam is confronted by a mugger. They struggle. The mugger shoots. Sam dies. The mugger runs.

Later that same night, Sam sees himself in a hospital emergency room. It doesn't take Sam long to figure out that he is dead. While watching Molly's grief over his death, another ghost (an older man) strolls up to Sam and tells him the most difficult thing about being a ghost is getting used to walking through doors.

Soon Sam learns that his evil colleague at the investment bank, Tony, played by Carl Brunker, masterminded the "mugging." It all has to do with a complicated plot to launder money for some criminals. The mugger was hired by Tony.

Through the help of a medium named Oda Mae Brown, played in an able comic performance by

Harry Hamm

Whoopi Goldberg, Sam is able to communicate with Molly and upset the plans of the dastardly Tony. Sam also gets to say a weepy goodbye to Molly and let her know he really cared, as if that was in doubt.

The romantic chemistry between Swayze and Moore is about as exciting as getting your teeth cleaned. Goldberg and Swayze work well together and get some laughs, but this film's promise of romance just doesn't deliver and the story line is a long muddled mess.

Rated PG-13. Running time: 125 minutes. Rating guide:  excellent;  good; * average; * poor.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

Summer of '71 featured freedom on big screen

Tired of this summer's crash-bang-boom movies and silly sequels? Return to the days when summer films were aimed at a college-educated adult audience.

Just a few years after the abolition of the old Hollywood Production Code that restricted certain kinds of stories, images and language in American movies, the summer of 1971 offered films that celebrated the new freedom of the screen.

Chief among these films was "Carnal Knowledge" (Embassy Home Entertainment, $14.98). Jules Feiffer's withering look at the infantile sexuality of the all-American male. Jack Nicholson and Art Garfunkel play two college chums in the late '40s who pass on to middle-age in the early '70s without learning a thing about women or themselves. Under Mike Nichols' direction, the film grows visually cooler, moving from the warm autumnal tones of their campus days to the antiseptic white of their "successful" middle years. A stellar cast of actresses play the women in their lives: Candice Bergen, Carol Kane, Rita Moreno and Oscar-nominee Ann-Margret.

Jane Fonda won an Oscar for her gritty but touching portrayal of a call girl in "Klute" (Warner Home Video,

gate the disappearance of one of the town's leading citizens, who had the habit of hiring prostitutes on his trips away from home. Ostensibly a thriller, "Klute" works better as a character study of a modern urban woman coping with her need for independence vs. her desire for commitment.

Adolescent sexual longing is the basis of Robert Mulligan's sensitive drama "Summer of '42" (Warner Home Video, $59.95). Robert Surtrees' Oscar-nominated cinematography captures the nostalgic tone of this memoir of World War II America, when a teenager's crush on a soldier's young bride leads to a bittersweet result.

It seems that 1971 was about the last year Hollywood felt it necessary to produce Westerns. Blake Edwards' wonderful "Wild Rovers" (MGM/UA, $59.95) was horribly re-cut by MGM for its original release, but the director's full-length, 136-minute version now is mercifully available on video. William Holden in one of his most moving performances, and a young Ryan O'Neal, star as a pair of cowboys who decide to turn to bank robbing.

Mason Wiley is a contributor to GQ, Elle, Time, Premiere, Cosmopolitan and The New York Times.

SIUC dean's list

CARBONDALE — Southern Illinois University-Carbonada has named 2,930 students to its spring semester academic dean's list. The students make up the top 15 percent of SIUC's undergraduate student body.

Dean's list recognition goes to full-time students whose semester grade-point averages meet performance standards set by SIUC's various academic units. Those range from 3.35 to 3.75 on a 4.0 (perfect) scale. During spring semester 1,135 students earned straight "A" grades. *Denotes straight "A" grades for the spring semester.

Students from this area include: Granite City — Derek C. Davis, John M. Kirkpatrick, Michael J. Maier and Lori C. Swigert.

Students attend leadership camp

Eric Terrell and Erin Robertson, both students at Coolidge Junior High School, were selected this year as delegates to the Summer Leadership Camp sponsored by the Illinois Association of Junior High Student Councils.

The camp was held at East Bay Campgrounds, near Bloomington, June 24 through June 30. Purposes of the camp were to provide an opportunity for the development of leadership skills, training for members and student council officers, as well as providing for the personal character growth of each student.

The delegates worked as members of a mock student council, learning to solve problems based on actual school situations and getting experience in officer training.

The participants also become skilled in committee organization and membership and developed an understanding of working in groups.

Nearly 200 students, representing junior high schools throughout Illinois, participated in the leadership camp.

Briefly

Loan applications available

Applications are available at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville for the new Illinois Opportunity Loans. The loans are not need-based nor will interest benefits be paid by the federal government.

Instead, repayment of interest at 8 percent will begin during the time students are in school.

The loans, which will be available for the upcoming fall quarter, are intended to benefit students from middle-income families who cannot qualify for regular need-based Stafford Loans because they cannot demonstrate financial need.

Freshmen will not be eligible for the loans. Sophomores may borrow up to $2,855 a year; junior and seniors, up to $4,000 per year; and graduate and professional students, up to $7,500 a year.

To qualify, students must file the 1990-91 ACT Family Financial Statement to prove they do not qualify for need-based aid. Additional information and application forms for the Illinois Opportunity Loan Program or other financial assistance resources may be obtained by contacting the SIUE Office of Student Work and Financial Assistance at 692-3880.
